

Contents

Preface.....	9
PART I: CURRENT ATTITUDES TOWARD THE BYZANTINE TEXT
1. Background	13
2. A Summary of the Argument that the Byzantine Text is Secondary.....	24
3. A Summary of the Argument that the Byzantine Text is Primary.....	32
4. An Examination of the Argument that the Byzantine Text is Primary	37
PART II: REASONS FOR CONSIDERING THAT THE BYZANTINE TEXT IS INDEPENDENT
Section A: Byzantine Readings Are Old.....	53
5. Distinctively Byzantine Readings Are Found in Early Papyri	55
6. Byzantine-Western Alignments Go Back Into the Second Century Independently and Originate in the East—Not in the West	70
7. The Silence of the Fathers Is Explainable and Therefore Is Not A Proof of Lateness	77
8. The “Conflate” or Longer Readings Are Not A Proof of Lateness.....	82

9. The Composite Nature of the Byzantine Texts Attests the Early Existence of Its Readings Where Its Strands Unite.....	90
10. Summary of Section A.....	95
Section B: The Byzantine Text Is Unedited In The Westcott-Hort Sense	99
11. The Evidence of Section A	101
12. The Significant Provenance of the Byzantine Text-Type	104
13. The Koinē Style of the Byzantine Text-Type.....	107
14. The Conservative Users	115
15. The Silent History	122
16. Summary of Section B	127
Conclusion.....	129
Appendices.....	133
Lists.....	137
1. Papyrus-Byzantine Alignments Opposed by Westerns, Alexandrians, and Westcott-Hort	145
2. Papyrus-Byzantine-Western Alignments Opposed by Alexandrians and Westcott-Hort	160
3. Papyrus-Byzantine-Alexandrian Alignments Followed by Westcott-Hort but Opposed by Westerns	175
4. Papyrus-Byzantine Plus Varying Support (Western and/or Alexandrian) but Opposed by Westcott-Hort	188
5. Papyrus-Byzantine Plus Varying Support (Western and/or Alexandrian) Followed Hesitantly by Westcott-Hort	200
Tables	209
1. Papyrus-Byzantine Readings Compared with Alexandrian	211
2. Papyrus-Byzantine Readings Compared with Western.....	212
3. Papyrus-Byzantine Readings Compared with Alexandrian-Western.....	213
4. Papyrus-Byzantine-Western Readings Compared with Alexandrian	217

5. Papyrus-Byzantine-Alexandrian Readings Compared with Western.....	223
Charts.....	228
1. Number of Occurrences and Relative Percentages of Four Basic Alignments	228
2. Numerical and Percentage Summary of Variants	229
3. Additions	229
4. Omissions	230
5. Changes	230
Bibliography	231
Indices To The Bibliography	275
Index To The Text	301