

CONTENTS

PART I. PREPARATORY QUESTIONS

SECTION	PAGE
I. Had Paul a Philosophy ? . . . . .	3
II. Method and Plan . . . . .	12
III. Is Paul's Philosophy Convincing? . . . . .	17
IV. Did Paul see Jesus? . . . . .	21
V. The Hellenism of Paul . . . . .	31
VI. The Childhood and Youth of Paul . . . . .	40
VII. St. Paul and St. John . . . . .	50
VIII. The Confident Faith of Paul and John . . . . .	56

PART II. THE THOUGHT OF PAUL

IX. The Basis of Paul's Thought—(1) God is . . . . .	65
X. The Basis of Paul's Thought—(2) God is Good . . . . .	69
XI. This Principle is Seen, but cannot be Proved . . . . .	72
XII. The Contact with Greek Thought . . . . .	80
XIII. Comparison with the Confession of Islam . . . . .	83

SECTION	PAGE
XIV. The Promise the Free Gift of God, yet Earned by Man . . . . .	85
XV. The Purpose of God . . . . .	89
XVI. The New Birth . . . . .	94
XVII. Life is Growth . . . . .	100
XVIII. Christ a Power in Man? . . . . .	104
XIX. The Alternative : Impersonal Power or Personal God . . . . .	107
XX. The Righteousness of God . . . . .	113
XXI. Is there a Limit to Salvation? . . . . .	121
XXII. The Idea of Growth and Development in the Teaching of Paul . . . . .	126
XXIII. Righteousness and Sin . . . . .	130
XXIV. The Pagan World of the Roman Empire . . . . .	139
XXV. The Wrath of God . . . . .	141
XXVI. Sin as a Force and Power over Man . . . . .	144
XXVII. The First Adam and the Second Adam . . . . .	151
XXVIII. The Saint as King . . . . .	157
XXIX. Faith as a Power . . . . .	163
XXX. A Motive Power to Salvation . . . . .	170
XXXI. The Measure and Estimate of Faith . . . . .	176
XXXII. Faith unto Salvation . . . . .	182
XXXIII. The Gift of Christ . . . . .	186
XXXIV. Metaphor and Truth . . . . .	191

SECTION	PAGE
XXXV. The Beginning of Sin in the World . . . . .	206
XXXVI. Influence of Contemporary Custom on Paul . . . . .	212
XXXVII. The Happy Lot of Man . . . . .	218
XXXVIII. The Mystery of God . . . . .	222
XXXIX. The Suffering of God . . . . .	226
XL. The Knowledge of God . . . . .	232
XLI. Knowledge and Love . . . . .	234
XLII. Partial and Complete Knowledge . . . . .	238
XLIII. The Rights of Man . . . . .	247
XLIV. Did Paul Teach a Selfish End? . . . . .	257
XLV. The Family in the Teaching of Paul . . . . .	263
XLVI. Conclusion . . . . .	269

PART III. SUBSIDIARY QUESTIONS

XLVII. Paul's Address to the Court of Areopagus at Athens . . . . .	277
XLVIII. The Relation of St. Paul to the Greek Mysteries . . . . .	283
XLIX. The Theory that Paul was an Epileptic . . . . .	306
L. The Hymn of Heavenly Love. (1 Cor. xiii.) . . . . .	329
LI. The Imprisonment and Supposed Trial of Paul in Rome. (Acts xxviii.) . . . . .	346
LII. The Date of the Galatian Letter . . . . .	383
LIII. The Use of the Word "Mystery" in the Letters . . . . .	404
LIV. Dr. Deissmann on the Letters of Paul as Literature . . . . .	412
Indices I., II. . . . .	449, 455