

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION	3
A. The Point of View	3
1. Message and Situation	3
2. Apologetic Theology and the Kerygma	6
B. The Nature of Systematic Theology	8
3. The Theological Circle	8
4. Two Formal Criteria of Every Theology	11
5. Theology and Christianity	15
6. Theology and Philosophy: A Question	18
7. Theology and Philosophy: An Answer	22
C. The Organization of Theology	28
D. The Method and Structure of Systematic Theology	34
8. The Sources of Systematic Theology	34
9. Experience and Systematic Theology	40
10. The Norm of Systematic Theology	47
11. The Rational Character of Systematic Theology	53
12. The Method of Correlation	59
13. The Theological System	66

PART I. REASON AND REVELATION

I. REASON AND THE QUEST FOR REVELATION	71
A. The Structure of Reason	71
1. The Two Concepts of Reason	71
2. Subjective and Objective Reason	75
3. The Depth of Reason	79
B. Reason in Existence	81
4. The Finitude and the Ambiguities of Actual Reason	81
5. The Conflict within Actual Reason and the Quest for Revelation	83
C. The Cognitive Function of Reason and the Quest for Revelation	94
6. The Ontological Structure of Knowledge	94
7. Cognitive Relations	97
8. Truth and Verification	100

II. THE REALITY OF REVELATION 106

A. The Meaning of Revelation 106

1. The Marks of Revelation 106

2. The Mediums of Revelation 118

3. The Dynamics of Revelation: Original and Dependent Revelation 126

4. The Knowledge of Revelation 129

B. Actual Revelation 132

5. Actual and Final Revelation 132

6. The Final Revelation in Jesus as the Christ 135

7. The History of Revelation 137

8. Revelation and Salvation 144

C. Reason in Final Revelation 147

9. Final Revelation Overcoming the Conflict between Autonomy and Heteronomy 147

10. Final Revelation Overcoming the Conflict between Absolutism and Relativism 150

11. Final Revelation Overcoming the Conflict between Formalism and Emotionalism 153

D. The Ground of Revelation 155

12. God and the Mystery of Revelation 155

13. Final Revelation and the Word of God 157

PART II. BEING AND GOD

I. BEING AND THE QUESTION OF GOD 163

Introduction: The Question of Being 163

A. The Basic Ontological Structure: Self and World 168

1. Man, Self, and World 168

2. The Logical and the Ontological Object 171

B. The Ontological Elements 174

3. Individualization and Participation 174

4. Dynamics and Form 178

5. Freedom and Destiny 182

C. Being and Finitude 186

6. Being and Nonbeing 186

7. The Finite and the Infinite 189

8. Finitude and the Categories 192

9. Finitude and the Ontological Elements 198

10. Essential and Existential Being 202

D. Human Finitude and the Question of God 204

11. The Possibility of the Question of God and the So-called Ontological Argument 204

12. The Necessity of the Question of God and the So-called Cosmological Arguments 208

II. THE REALITY OF GOD 211

A. The Meaning of "God" 211

1. A Phenomenological Description 211

a) God and Man's Ultimate Concern 211

b) God and the Idea of the Holy 215

2. Typological Considerations 218

a) Typology and the History of Religion 218

b) Types of Polytheism 222

c) Types of Monotheism 225

d) Philosophical Transformations 230

B. The Actuality of God 235

3. God as Being 235

a) God as Being and Finite Being 235

b) God as Being and the Knowledge of God 238

4. God as Living 241

a) God as Being and Living 241

b) The Divine Life and the Ontological Elements 244

c) God as Spirit and the Trinitarian Principles 249

5. God as Creating 252

a) God's Originating Creativity 253

b) God's Sustaining Creativity 261

c) God's Directing Creativity 263

6. God as Related 271

a) The Divine Holiness and the Creature 271

b) The Divine Power and the Creature 272

c) The Divine Love and the Creature 279

d) God as Lord and Father 286

INDEX

INDEX 293