

Contents

Foreword by Virginia Mollenkott	7
Abstract of the Argument	13
I. Introduction	19
II. The Theological Options	23
A. A Summary Statement	23
B. The Androgynous Ideal	24
C. The Traditional View Which Subsumes Human Sexuality Under Marriage	29
D. The View Which Grounds Human Sexuality in the Imago Dei (Karl Barth)	33
Addendum: Male and Female in the Age to Come	40
E. Man and Woman in Barth's Theology: An Evaluation	43
III. The Relationship Between Man and Woman	44
A. Introduction	49
B. An Examination of the New Testament Texts on Which a Hierarchical View of the Man/Woman Relation- ship is Based in Christian Theology	50
1. Introduction	50
2. The Pauline Statement of the Argument	51
C. The Hierarchical View of the Man/Woman Relationship Elaborated and Defended	61
1. A Classical Statement: Thomas Aquinas	61
2. A Transitional Statement: Luther and Calvin	66

3. A Contemporary Statement: Karl Barth	69
4. An Evaluation	82
D. Women in the Old Testament and in Judaism	86
E. Jesus and Women	94
First Addendum: Concerning "Female Uncleaness"	103
Second Addendum: Was Jesus Married?	105
F. The Pauline Argument Revisited	111
1. Introduction	111
2. Intrinsic Problems	112
G. An Analysis of the Second Creation Narrative	120
H. The Rejection of the Hierarchical View of the Man/Woman Relationship in Favor of One of Partnership	129
1. Introduction	129
2. Female Subordination and the Analogy of Faith	134
Addendum: Analogia Fidei , a Comment	136
3. Female Subordination and the Bond of Marriage (Ephesians 5)	137
4. The Magna Carta of Humanity (Galatians 3:28)	142
5. Conclusion	147
First Addendum: Misogyny in Western Thought	149
Second Addendum: The Ordination of Women	160
IV. Epilogue: The Ontology of Sex (The Eternal Feminine)	171
Bibliography	189
Indexes	191