

CONTENTS

PREFACE

vii

I. JESUS CAME TEACHING 1

An interpretation of Jewish education in the first century—The aims of Jewish education—The method of Jewish education—Results of this type of education—Jesus' Break with Jewish education—Positive principles followed by Jesus.

II. EMPHASIZING RESULTS 14

We are not getting the results we desire—Two dangers teachers face—Workers together with God—The centrality of the conversion experience—The problem teachers face.

VII. UNDERSTANDING THE TEACHING-LEARNING PROCESS 29

Two approaches—Steps in the teaching-learning process—A problem—Some misconceptions—Principles of learning.

IV. SOME DYNAMICS IN THE TEACHING SITUATION 51

Factors that inhere in the teacher—Factors that inhere in the learner—Factors that inhere in the learning situation—The Holy Spirit as teacher.

V. STUDYING THE BIBLE AND THE PUPIL . . . 65

The teacher and his Bible—The teacher and his theology—The teacher studying his Bible—The teacher and the pupil—Jesus' concern for persons—The teacher understanding the pupils—Information the teacher needs—How get and use this information.

VI. MAKING AIMS SPECIFIC 89

A weakness—What is an aim—Qualities of a good aim—Types of aims—Aims and results—Knowledge, inspiration, conduct response aims distinguished—Learning to identify each type of aim.

VII. WHY AIMS MUST BE SPECIFIC 105

The way character develops—Translating general ideals into specific responses—Limited time—A difference in approach.

VIII. SECURING PURPOSEFUL BIBLE STUDY . . . 116

Ineffective ways to use the Bible—How to secure purposeful Bible study—An illustration—An analysis—Mistakes to avoid—Developing the lesson.

IX. MAKING THE LESSON PERSONAL 128

A difficult task—Unguided application—How make the lesson personal—Mistakes to avoid.

X. SECURING CARRY-OVER 144

Plan for carry-over—Members make their own suggestions—Follow-up by the teacher—An example—Advantages of group decision.

XI. A LESSON PLAN 156

Practical aids in lesson preparation—The teacher plans the lesson—A comprehensive lesson plan—A simplified lesson plan—Can the teacher achieve more than one aim in a lesson.

XII. TESTING OUR TEACHING 167

Teaching is inevitably tested—Various types of tests—Areas in which testing may be done—The need for accurate testing.

XIII. SECURING CHURCH-HOME CO-OPERATION . 178

The church cannot do the task of religious education alone—Reasons for the centrality of the home in religious education—The objection that parents can't teach religion—The direct and indirect approach—Plans for church-home co-operation.

XIV. THE WEEKLY OFFICERS AND TEACHERS' MEETING 199

The weekly officers and teachers' meeting—What it is—Why have it—Ways it may be used for teacher training—A continuous school for teacher training—Advantages of this plan—Some questions considered—The teaching improvement period demonstrated.

XV. THE IMPORTANCE OF THE TEACHER . . . 223

The teacher must examine his Christian experience—A plan for self improvement.